Mexican View of the Cota Case.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Late advices from the city of Mexico represented that feeling caused by conduct of civil authorities of California in the Clodoncerda extradition case, still continues. The Republica, El Republicano, La Patria and half a dozen other journals have denounced the action of the superior court of California in the most scathing terms, and accused the authorities of that state of a desire to bring on a conflict with Mexico. One journalist remarks: "No American official would have ventured to send a sheriff on board an English, German or French man-of-war to arrest its commander; but animated by Yankee greed, these Californians are anxious to take advantage of Mexico's weakness." A World correspondent says: "If a statement made by the Mexican press be true, and the documentary evidence forwarded to this government can be trusted, some over-zealous American official has blundered."

The Land Leaguers Propose to Continue the Fight.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Irish World has the following from Paris: There was a full meeting of the Irish league executive committee here to-day in council to consult as to future action. Parnell presided. Arrangements were made to carry on the work of the land league. In all eventualities there will be no flinching. The organizers on the Irish soil will high perfect. The people are of one mind and one spirit. Public faith is ridiculous and malicious rumors in circulation in English papers, and which may be telegraphed to America, concerning officers of the league. These stories are manufactured for a purpose. Parnell returns to parliament to oppose the passage of the arms bill. From thence he will proceed to Ireland. Dillon replaces Davitt. Numerous meetings are now being held in Ireland to denounce the conduct of the government and protest against coercion. The government is committing blunder upon blunder. We feel confident that coercion when passed will fall of its end.

The Sugar Trade vs. the Government.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—A meeting of the New York sugar trade to-day endorsed the action of the chamber of commerce respecting sugar rebates, etc., and protested against Secretary Sherman's treatment of the subject, giving it the appearance of fraudulent purpose on the part of importers, and criticizes the government for not taking large steps if their position is correct. They declare that the government's position on color ng sugars is illegal and contrary to courts ruling and the laws of congress.

The hospital authorities say that they forgot his address. When the moon rose there were streaks of light reflected from its different sides. In a short time the streaks disappeared, four lunar dogs appeared and soon four beautiful lunar bows appeared on a line with the dogs. Later the bows became simply a halo with the moon and dogs situated at nearly equal distances apart on the circle. The halo soon contracted, becoming closer to the moon and leaving the dogs outside the circle. At about 10 o'clock the halo disappeared, the dogs soon following.

General Sorrow at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The announcement of the death of Fernando Wood causes sorrow in social as well as political circles in Washington. He kept a hospitable house in Washington for many years and was personally liked by everybody. News of his death reached the house of representatives about 1 o'clock this afternoon and created a feeling of profound regret among his late colleagues. Speaker Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, who is second on the ways and means committee, will succeed by reason of Mr. Wood's death to the chairmanship.

The announcement in the senate was immediately followed by adjournment in respect for his memory, and this circumstance prevented the holding of an executive session, at which the Chinese treaties were expected to come up for consideration.

Resolutions of Respect.

The New York delegation in the house to-day adopted resolutions regarding the death of Fernando Wood and ordered them sent to his family.

The Defeat of the Subsidy Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The senate's extremely decisive rejection of the steamship mail subsidy amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill this afternoon, was a general surprise, as its adoption appeared yesterday to be completely assured, and the result was rendered still more incomprehensible by the fact that a number of senators, who, up to minutes the last moment, had warmly advocated the subsidy appropriation, were recorded on the final roll call as voting against it. The explanation of this seeming inconsistency, however, is found in the fact that these senators want to allow the money to be paid for mail service in foreign as well as American built ships, provided only that the vessels in each case should be owned and manned by Americans; and when it became apparent by the rejection of Morgan's amendment and similar propositions, that the original proposition would be constructed prohibiting foreign built ships from being brought into competition by American purchases for the benefits of the subsidized free-ship men, including Senators Farley, Maxey, Pugh, Brown and others, all voted on principle against the whole project.

Conkling going to Mentor.

Conkling has been invited to Mentor and is probably on the way.

STEAMBOAT LAW.

The Amended Rules now Pending.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Upon inquiry at the treasury department to-day as to whether matters recently passed upon by the board of supervising inspectors of steam vessels had been approved by the secretary, it was ascertained that the work is but nearly prepared, but will be ready for submission to the secretary in a day or two. The amendment to rule 10, adopted by the board, which reduces the space between the woodwork and boilers from six teen to four inches, has been referred to the solicitor of the treasury for his opinion on some legal points. As soon as such action is rendered that portion of the work transacted by the board, together with the opinion of the solicitor, will be laid before Secretary Sherman for action. The president of the Steamboat Union Association of New York has addressed a letter to Dumont, supervising inspector general, in which he says: "We are held to suppose, by your opposition to the amendment, that when the proceedings go before the secretary for approval you will endeavor to defeat it, or its object by using your influence with the secretary for that purpose. We trust you will not do so."

Dumont replies. "The matter was presented to the board by the secretary of the treasury under my advice for the purpose of having the rule modified to a reasonable extent. Whatever course I may choose to adopt regarding approval of the amendment rule will be governed by carefully considered reasons, founded upon what, in my judgment, under responsibility of the oath of office which I have taken, is all seem to be in accordance with exact justice to steamboat owners whom you represent, as well as to the traveling public, whose interests are especially intrusted by law to this office. The fact that a majority of the board of supervising inspectors may feel it their duty to legislate purely in the interests of steam vessels owners, regardless of the rights of the general public, will not, I am sure, even in your estimation, require this office to be governed thereby in its judicial duty."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

When a woman leaves a man who has not earned a cent for years, he immediately advertises that he will pay no debts of her contracting.

The Cincinnati Commercial offers a prize of $5 to any one who succeeds in guessing the names of the next cabinet. Here is a fine chance for Gen. Garfield to make a modest stake honestly.

Frederick Vanderbilt is said to have lost $50,000 on the rise in Western Union stock from 80 to par on short contracts, while William H. made $2,500,000 in the same deal. It's a wise son that knows his own father-in Wall street.

Dr. Schliemann has presented all his Trojan antiquities, including the gold and all other ornaments of the so-called "Treasure of Priam," to the emperor of Germany. The emperor will probably place them in the new archeological museum at Berlin.

The supreme court of the United States has decided that the income tax is constitutional. Lawyer Tilden has heretofore held to the contrary. Now that that thing has come to pass to pay up his back taxes. The income tax will be revived so that capital may be made to bear its just proportion of the public burdens.

Senator Lamar is reported as saying that the Mississippi democrats would rather see Senator Lamar in the cabinet than any white republican in the state. This is perhaps true, and it is true, also, that if the legal voters of Mississippi could have their way they would continue Mr. Lamar in the senate in preference to any white democrat in the state.

The queen of the Washington lobby has been described as "a fascinating little brunette from the sunny south—the widow of a confederate colonel who fell before Richmond. She has been abroad, and knows the most celebrated men of France, England and the continent, although her circle of famous acquaintances is evidently circumscribed. The charm of her conversation is irresistible, especially to gray-haired gentlemen whose hair is thin on the top of their heads.

The first mayor of New York was Thomas Willett, who was born in England in 1611. He came to Massachusetts when 18 years old and in 1647 succeeded Miles Standish in the military command of Plymouth colony. When the English took New York from the Hollanders in 1664, Capt. Willett was chosen mayor of the city and administered the government two years, a the expiration of which he returned to New England, where he died.

Local Option in Illinois.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The prohibition question in Illinois is in something like this shape: There are 600,000 male adults in the state; about 400,000 of them drink more or less beer, wine or whisky, and a large number drink altogether more than is good for them. In short, several thousand are inebriates. It is probable that as many as 40,000 men in this state drink habitually and to excess, and 360,000 drink in various degrees of moderation. There are 200,000 men who are practically teetotalers and never or rarely drink any intoxicating liquors. The problem with Mrs. Willard and the other leaders of the non-drinking minority of men is how to prevent the 40,000 excessive drinkers from getting any liquor. The plan Mrs. Willard has devised is to forbid by female votes any of the 10,000 saloon-keepers from selling beer, wine or spirits to any of the 400,000 adult males in the state who want "to take something." It is assumed that such is the gallantry of the 10,000 saloon-keepers in Illinois, and of the 400,000 male voters who inhabit it, the former will empty their liquors into the gutters and the latter never again ask for a glass even of beer—all in the event that Mrs. Willard and the females generally vote no license. We sincerely wish we could believe it.

More about the Leaguers.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—When Parnell returned here from Brussels, he heard rumors that his absence from London was due to fear of being arrested. A delegate from the last meeting of the league, waited on Parnell with resolutions, asking that he should go to America, but he decided to remain on the continent to complete other arrangements in connection with the league, in consequence of its becoming known to himself and his friends that communications addressed to him and them, have been tampered with by the government. The leaguers are convinced that letters were tampered with so long ago as December, and the utmost caution since has been used. It is denied that any compromising statement has been written, but it is thought necessary to remove the headquarters of the league to Paris. Parnell will start for England in a few days. Brennan has been instructed to deposit all documents of the league in a place of security. All communications between Parnell and friends in England are carried by couriers. Biggar and Healy have returned to London.

Important Amendment Asked.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—In the commons last night O'Donnell, home rule member from Dungarvan, moved to strike out treason from the list of crimes of suspicion for which persons are liable to arrest under the bill for the protection of person and property in Ireland. He declared that there was not a scrap of evidence of the existence of a treasonable movement. Right Hon. Hugh Law, attorney general for Ireland, said that documents had been found in certain districts, indicating the existence of treasonable conspiracy, and gave as instances the recent Phœnix park assassination. Forster, chief secretary for Ireland, added that the government had reason to believe that there were a few persons in Ireland who were capable of taking advantage of the present excitement to incite treasonable practices. O'Donnell's amendment was then rejected.

BY TELEGRAPH AND MAIL.

An Address to Irish-Americans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Patrick Egan, treasurer of the Land League, telegraphs from Paris that he is in that city to maintain connection between Ireland and America. He adds: Ireland is thoroughly organized; the people are resolute, and sanction discipline; priests and laymen, Catholics and Protestants, are as one. Never was there such a spectacle of unity witnessed. The substantial aid constantly wafted over to us from our kindred in the great republic, joined with the sympathy of the American people, expressed through the mouth of the United States congress, has infused into Ireland a spirit of hope and determination to fight to the bitter end and till landlordism is dead, and the forces of usurpation and tyranny are laid prostrate. Redouble your exertions, fellow-countrymen. Show to the enemy that the hope of our nation is made impregnable by the resolve Ireland across the sea.

Land Leaguers Leaving.

A cable to the Herald from Dublin, says Mr. Walsh, one of the recent traversers, has been induced by his friends to leave Ireland. He will proceed to Australia immediately, with the ostensible purpose of organizing a land league. Other members of the league are going to America. The Indies' league will leave the league office. It is probable that they will appear in new offices and under a new name this week.

The Grant Ball.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—The Times' Washington special says: It is current gossip around the capital and in general political circles that the democratic objection to the retirement of Ulysses S. Grant from the army with the rank and pay which belonged to him when he resigned to accept the presidency will be withdrawn to such an extent as to allow the passage of a bill before the expiration of the forty-sixth congress. The democrats who vote for no measure will insist, however, that the bill shall not carry an provision conferring on Grant the command in accordance with the retired rank in the event of an emergency. This change of front on the part of this congressional democrats is accounted for by the consciousness that they are somewhat afraid of the general in politics and wish to shelve him, as they think, permanently. It is expected that the bill will come up again in the senate this week, and that with the objectionable active service emergency clause stricken out it will pass by a small majority. Many democratic congressmen as well as senators think it would be shabby, in spite of Grant's partisan services during the late campaign, to deny him some kind of financial reward of a permanent nature at the hands of the government.

The Utah Delegate's Certificate.

SALT LAKE, Feb. 9.—This afternoon the attorney of George Q. Cannon made application to the U. S. district court this city for a writ of mandamus against Secretary Thomas, as acting governor during the absence of Governor Murray, requiring him to give the certificate of election to George Q. Cannon. The writ was granted by Judge Zane, requiring Thomas to show cause on Monday why the certificate should not be given to Cannon.

Bismarck's Policy Severely Criticised.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—In the lower house of the Prussian diet yesterday, the debate continued on the first reading of the bill providing for the disposal of moneys accruing to Prussia from the surplus of the imperial revenue due to the new and root taxes. Herr Richter vehemently attacked Prince Bismarck's customs policy failure, which he said the latter was trying to cover up by empty promises. The official reports respecting the improved condition of commerce and industry were fabrications. Under cadence of trade was solely owing to Bismarck's policy. The rise in the price of food and duties on corn, petroleum, etc., caused the present distress, which the bill was not calculated to alleviate.

Bismarck said the bill would have to be passed by the aid of the supplementary session diet. The object of the bill was to protect German agriculture from the effects of bad harvests. His principal aim was to equalize the rate of direct taxation, which was too high, with the rate of indirect taxation, which was too low. He only desired to relieve the poorer tax and hand over the other taxes to districts and communes. He said: "Tobacco must bring in more revenue than hitherto. We must enlarge our resources and I consider tobacco the most available means of obtaining them. Parliamentary conflicts will not make me swerve from my principles, and I shall not retire until the emperor commands me to do so." Bismarck's remarks on tobacco were generally interpreted as hinting at a government monopoly.

DEMONSTRATION OF IRISH SYMPATHIZERS.

At Hyde Park in London—A Popular Protest against the Coercion Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—An anti-coercion meeting was held at Hyde park to-day. An attempt to start an independent anti-coercion demonstration in the park a little distance from the spot designated for the regular meeting, led to the beating of an unpopular and somewhat intoxicated orator, and to the belief that he was pursued out of the gates by a rough mob. An immense crowd assembled to witness the arrival of the procession, but no opposition or hostility was manifested. The procession comprised six bands, each with a considerable following. One of the prominent figures was a cart filled with green rosettes on their uniform. There were many banners bearing inscriptions "Release Davitt," "We Want the Land that Bord Us," and "Union and Victory." The procession was swelled by contingents from Magan Charter associations and democratic workmen's clubs. At the place where the procession halted, there was a dense throng numbering some thousands and composed mainly of Irish, who were very enthusiastic. Among the speakers were T. P. O'Connor, Isaac Nelson and John Redmond, home rule members of parliament. The meeting was divided into three sections, which were at such distances apart as not to interfere with each other. The speakers declared that Gladstone was raised into power by radical work ingmen and by them he must be deposed. All whom of this kind as well as remarks disparaging to the house of lords were enthusiastically received. Resolutions were carried without dissent. At the close of the meeting the crowd marched eastward by the way of Piccadilly and St. James street. At the foot of St. James street conveyances containing the lords-in-waiting halted so as to give the followers an opportunity to close up and make an imposing demonstration through Pall Mall. There was vigorous groaning opposite the Guards club and whenever sight any one was visible at the windows, particularly at the Carlton. Opposite the Reform Club the mob halted and the leaders called for cheers for Davitt and Owen, and groans for the very member of Bradford (meaning Forster) and for Liberal renegades, all of which were given. No display of force was made by the authorities.

How Grant was Nominated.

[Turlow Weed in the N. Y. Tribune.

I propose to show how Gen. Grant became a republican instead of a democratic candidate for president. Before the presidential canvass for 1868 opened, thoughtful men of both parties were casting about for suitable candidates. I learned that Dean Richmond, Peter Cagger, and Corne lius Wendell, wiser democratic leaders than those who succeeded them, were quietly paving the way for Gen. Grant's nomination. It was generally understood that while Gen. Grant had not been a prominent politician, he had acted before the rebellion with the democratic party. I called a meeting of an impromptu general committee, a committee that had quietly kept doing good republican work in this city for several years. Prominent among the members of that committee were John A. Kennedy, James Kelly, James Bowen, Thomas Murphy, et al. This was arranged on Saturday. In the evening of that day Gen. Grant's arrival at Long Branch was announced. I immediately took a boat for that place, and after breakfast Sunday morning invited Gen. Grant to smoke his cigar in my room. I then greatly surprised the general by informing him that he would be nominated for president at a republican meeting to be held in New York on the following Monday evening, and that the proceedings would be presented to him by the chairman of the meeting, Mr. Thomas Murphy. I added that he need not personally trouble himself about the election; that he had done his work with a bayonet, and that the people would do their work with the ballot."

Yellowstone Division of the Northern Pacific.

[St. Paul Pioneer Press.]

Gen. J. T. Dodge, civil engineer in charge of the Yellowstone division of the Northern Pacific railroad, who has made Miles City his headquarters during the past year, leaves for the east next week to report the results of the very extensive surveys made under his direction in the Yellowstone valley during the past summer. He has had, most of the time, three locating parties out in the field since the 1st of May last. These parties have run over 800 miles, including preliminary and location lines. Two lines from Glendive to Miles City, four lines from Miles City to the Big Horn, and two lines from the Big Horn to Coulson. From Miles City to the Big Horn the valley has been thoroughly examined on both sides of the river. The characteristics of the valley favor the south side from Glendive to the mouth of the Big Horn. The line of the road as located and adopted from Miles City on the south side of the river. From thence to the Big Horn the line of location will shortly be decided upon, and perhaps in favor of the south side.

THE FAMOUS OPERA SINGERS.

Anne Louise Carey and Clara Louise Kellogg regret beyond question the most famous opera singers of modern times. In fact they have been acknowledged to be the leaders of their profession, as well as ladies of large experience and particularly good taste. They have probably traveled more extensively than any ladies on the stage, and, as a consequence, have had excellent opportunities of judging of the merits of different countries and their productions. It is certainly a very great credit to California and the balmy semi-tropical climate of the Pacific to have had them pronounce Hiscock's Yosemite Cologne by far the best they have ever used in any country. For sale by Woodward, Clarke & Co., Portland, Oregon.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb 4.

Conger, Pomeroy and Hawley were appointed conferees on the Pacific railroad bill.

Bills introduced and referred.

By Stevenson—Resolutions of the Illinois legislature urging the passage of measures to relieve the commerce of the country from unjust discriminations by railroad corporations, and to protect interstate commerce by law.

Tenure of office—Fixing the first Monday of November as the time for the assembling of congress.

Carlisle reported back a bill regulating the manufacture of vinegar by the alcohol evaporating process.

Ellis reported back gasoline regulating the policy of the United States in regard to the canal canal.

Senate amendments to joint resolution relating to the presidential vote, and to provide for the counting of the votes at the centennial surrender of Cornwallis, were concurred in.

Electric business was then considered.

The house went into committee, Townsend of Illinois in the chair, upon senate amendments for fund to light pneumatic certificates of the District of Columbia; but before any action was taken thereon, the committee rose and Speaker Randall announced the death of Fernando Wood, who had entered the house forty years ago and had he live to till the next term, for which he was chosen, he would have served twenty years.

Tucker, of the ways and means committee, of which Wood was chairman, pronounced the customary resolutions and moved a adjournment.

After a short address by Cox these resolutions were adopted.

The speaker appointed a committee to attend the funeral ceremonies, and the house as a final mark of respect, adjourned.

FOR ARMY RAMSEY'S VIEWS.

He Thinks the Army Should be Concentrated —The Coming Administration.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Secretary of War Ramsey was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday. In response to inquiry by a Tribune reporter concerning the opinions of the U. S. Army, he said that a deficiency bill about our army is that it is very much detached. To be effective it should be concentrated. In a day of rail road facilities the old-time good reasons for scattering the army posts, no longer exist. Here many regiments army posts. The present force is sufficient largely for all purposes, provided we could have a good effective force centered at one point.

The reporter asked: Who do you think are likely to be Gen. Garfield's cabinet appointments? Senator Blaine, as secretary of state, will be premier of the incoming administration, and naturally he will have some voice in forming the next cabinet. It is said that he would throw his influence against Senator Conkling. Also—Oh, no; Blaine is too much of a gentleman to allow his private grievances affect the welfare of the republican party. Gen. Garfield entertains to broad views to permit such action.

How about the future of members of President Hayes' cabinet? And—They will all be retired, and if the record justifies their friends in presenting them for future political tenure, possibly some of them may be connected with the next administration. I will say right here, said Secretary Ramsey, that no man ever interceded with me to use with such continuous knowledge of public affairs Gorfield has. Frequently in executive council of large liberal intercourse with the conduct of affairs.

Stanley Matthews Interviewed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Stanley Matthews, nominated for justice of the supreme court of the United States, was in the city yesterday. A Post reporter, according to his usual morning custom, called on the leader of the bar at his residence to ruminate upon the political situation. Matthews said that he had so often been misrepresented and his views misinterpreted by reporters that he had given up public utterances through the press. As to your enquiry concerning the incoming administration, said Mr. Matthews, I know that Gen. Garfield will give the country a straightforward administration. I do not believe any party could carry on a successful opposition to such an administration as Garfield will. We will commence his administration with an entirely Blaine cabinet.

Meeting of German Socialists.

A mass meeting at Irving Hall this afternoon, attended by 1,000 German men and women, was addressed by Wm. Fritzsche of the reichstag and Louis Victor, journalist, who recently arrived in this country, and by John Swinton. Herr Fritzsche was greeted with round after round of applause. The speaker addressed the audience in German, reviewing the present social condition of Germany, and the oppression upon the minority shown by the ruling powers towards the social labor party, which party now numbers 1,500,000 strong, and gaining in members rapidly every day. There were three literary men present, who, it is understood, are to represent the party at the coming congress of socialists to be held in New York in May next. These gentlemen are Herr Most, Herr Hasselmann and Herr Schewitsch. Most is a refugee from Austria, Hasselmann from Germany, and Schewitsch from Russia. Most is the editor of a socialistic paper published in London, and Hasselmann and Schewitsch are editors of socialistic papers published in Switzerland. Most is a powerful speaker, and is said to be the most dangerous socialist in Europe. He is a man of about 40 years of age, and is a native of Augsburg, Bavaria. He was formerly a member of the reichstag, but was expelled from that body for his socialistic views. He is also a member of the Austrian reichstag, but was expelled from that body for the same reason. He is a man of fine appearance, and is a forcible speaker. Hasselmann is a young man, and is also a powerful speaker. He is a native of Mecklenburg, Germany, and was formerly a member of the reichstag. He is also a member of the Austrian reichstag, but was expelled from that body for the same reason. He is a man of fine appearance, and is a forcible speaker. Schewitsch is a young man, and is also a powerful speaker. He is a native of Russia, and was formerly a member of the reichstag. He is also a member of the Austrian reichstag, but was expelled from that body for the same reason. He is a man of fine appearance, and is a forcible speaker.

The World is Governed too Much.

[New York Commercial Bulletin.]

We see it stated that a number of bills introduced into the present congress (both sessions) is now on record in those two houses. This is appalling. If we add to that dynamic the scarcely less prolific legislation of the thirty-eight different states and their annual sessions, we are inclined to think there are at few persons who do not begin to suspect that our country, if not the world, is "governed, to much." As long as we have lawyers in congress and in state legislatures, however, the pyramid will continue to rise, and the burthen upon the backs of the people will be heavier and heavier. Such a condition of things makes insight for people, where no lawyers were permitted to live, and where the statutes were few and simple that the most unlettered had not much difficulty in comprehending their meaning.

Too Cold for the Fish.

[Savannah (Ga.) News.]

A remarkable circumstance came to our notice in connection with the recent cold snap was the effect on the fish along the coast. Large schools were driven in shore and in shallow water, from as it may seem, it is asserted that the fish, particularly bass and trout, were observed to be huddling closely out of the water on land, and old negro caught a very fine bass in this way at Raccoon Key, near Brunswick. On it, Catherine not drown in the water was a common thing to see, large numbers of large liberal interest mingling in the conduct of affairs.

ANOTHER STORM IN THE WEST.

All Trains in the Vicinity of Omaha Delayed—Coal Famine—Railroad Accidents, etc.

OMAHA, Feb. 14.—Early this morning another snow storm began and has continued steadily all day. No wind however, has been stirring in this vicinity, and hence it has not drifted; but high winds and big drifts are reported west and south of Lincoln. The storm came again from the east, and at 3 o'clock this afternoon was ranging from Omaha to Sidney, 400 miles, with the thermometer at 16

TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 15, 1881.

STATE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

It is related that Queen Elizabeth asked the speaker of the house of commons on a certain occasion, "Well, Mr. Speaker, what hath passed in the house?" The answer was, "May it please your majesty, seven weeks." Congress is going on in about this way during the present winter. The democratic majorities of the two houses, hitherto so aggressive, have apparently lost all interest in affairs, and their proceedings are characterized by extraordinary indifference and tameness. There have been no political bills and no speeches. The electoral count passed without a ripple of disturbance. Though the platforms of the party have demanded "a tariff for revenue only," the committees of congress have refused to take any step towards modification of the tariff laws. The supply of "principles" seems to have run out. Certainly the old stock is bankrupt. And it must be mentioned as some commendation of the leaders of the party that at last they seem to have sagacity to see it. Something it is for men to be able to know when they are logically defunct. Otherwise, when would the stream of partisan declamation cease or slake? It has taken longer to beat the democratic party in the argument on the doctrines of the rebellion than it did to beat the rebellion itself. But the like is a common thing in history. When gunpowder is burned with effect and does its work thoroughly, the strife is over. A hard fact is reached, from which there is no appeal. But when it comes to the field of wordy dispute, the contest often runs on as if it were to have no end. For this is a contest in which men, though vanquished, may, and usually do, argue still.

But there are signs now that the old dispute is practically over. That is, the grounds of the dispute will pretty certainly change. It is noted at Washington that there is quiet talk of a consolidation between the democrats and greenbackers, in which the democrats are to drop their party name, the greenbackers are to make the platform, and the democrats are to have the larger part of the offices which coalition may be able to control. And it is said that the new party cry for this coalition next year is to be, "Down with the national banks and check to the rule of corporations." This, however, is likely to fail, as other expedients of "party reorganization" have so often failed heretofore. In the democratic party there is as large a proportion of wealthy men who are interested in national banks, or engaged with corporations, as in the republican.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent tells us that the result of the presidential election has had a singularly disheartening effect on the democrats in congress. This appears from many incidents. It is asserted that there has not been at any time since the first of December a sufficient number of democrats present in the house to make a quorum. Many representatives seem to have lost all interest in public business, and losing all regard for party admonitions and calls they have remained home or gone home a dozen at a time, to the great distress of Speaker Randall, who has had his heart set on running through certain partisan measures. But the absence of democrats is not the only phenomenon noticed in congress. The Herald's correspondence asserts that the astonishing incapacity for orderly and sensible transaction of business manifested in both houses by the democrats this session has been a matter of general comment. One of the blunders was the effort to oust Senator Kellogg. Another was an attempt to put a resolution through to regulate the electoral count, in a form which was calculated to override all the powers of the states, and was therefore against the most cherished principles of the democratic party. A third was the treatment of the funding bill, in the course of which the leading democrats of the house showed that they lacked either capacity or disposition to deal with the subject; and hence the bill was got out of the house and into the senate, to the great relief of all concerned.

The general course of the managers shows that they have no interest, or at least no confidence, in the immediate future of the party. They take no interest in the recent attempts to reorganize their party in New York. There are not two democrats in the house who sympathize with this New York attempt, and there are not a dozen who think it has the least promise of success. The democrats in the house who want to or are willing to see their party reorganized on a truly democratic basis could be counted on one's fingers, and would not count up ten men. The mass of the democratic representatives and senators want to avoid all disputed questions, and would like to put their party on a simple platform of opposition to national banks and to corporations. That they believe to be the popular issue for the next four years, and they sneer at Mr. Beck's speech for free ships, and at Mr. Morrison's desire for tariff reform."

But it would be unwise to assume that the days of the democratic party are ended. The party will probably live, not so much, however, because of its vitality as because of its inertia. That is to say, there must be an opposition party, and the democratic organization is in a condition to fulfil this requirement. It has no positive principles which the country desires to accept, but it has a multitude of adherents who are fluted by disposition and habit to stand in opposition. Such a party is by no means useless. It performs an important and even necessary function. The democratic party has at all times during the past twenty years been strong enough to hold the ascendant party in check, to force it to proceed slowly, to compel it to revise its principles and to consider and prune its measures. Should the democratic party abandon its name, its present adherents would still form the masses of an opposition which would be powerful enough to hold a veto over the dominant party, and perhaps at some future time, when least expected, would win control of the government. But it will gain no success by espousing the greenback movement. There must be something more solid than a mirage which has ceased to captivate by its novelty and no longer exerts the fascination of a plausible illusion.

Many newspapers of the higher class have spoken in favor of Mr. Bergh's bill to establish the whipping-post for wife-beaters. The New York Journal of Commerce makes the following startling declaration:

In our best society it is declared that a large number of women, and many of these delicate and timid, submit to this treatment because ashamed to unmask the brutality of their husbands to the world.

But if these abused wives do not now "unmask the brutality of their husbands," when the punishment is no more serious than a fine or degradation in the social scale, is it to be presumed that they will tell the whole truth and be forward to do so, when their husbands will be tied up to the stake and whipped as a consequence of the disclosure of their brutality? Those women who have not yet reached that goal to which the female heart is so prone to aspire, "the best society," may pause and reflect whether it is worth while to continue their efforts to reach it, since wife-beating seems to rank among the fashionable amusements of the "upper ten." However, we are in favor of the whipping-post for wife beaters. It will give a brute his deserts now and then and the same punishment should be meted out for garroting, for assaults on female purity and for cruelty to children. It is the only penalty that a class of heavy brutes can feel or fear.

Our dispatches confirm the report, published some days ago, of the capture of the capital of Peru by the armies of Chili, and furnish details of the fighting that preceded the fall of that city, which was protracted and bloody. It is supposed that this event will practically end the war, which has been in progress two years or more. Conquest is the underlying motive on the part of Chili, complicated with political intrigue and personal ambitions. There have been old disputes about certain territorial lines and treaty obligations, but as the case now stands Chili is bent on annexing certain valuable territory, and compelling Peru to pay the cost of the war and give guarantees for future good behavior. The terms will be hard, but there is no escape for the conquered government, as it is now deemed too late for friendly mediation by the United States or any other nation. The indemnity required is likely to be larger than the conquered nation can pay; and the consequence will not improbably be the obliteration of Peru from the roll of independent states. The war indemnity will be a mortgage which, if unpaid, Chili may foreclose when it pleases her to do so—unless Peru can get some powerful nation to interpose.

Senator-elect Howell E. Jackson of Tennessee declared himself a broad-gauge man recently in the following terms: "While I am a democrat, devoted to the principles of that party, it is not in my nature, temperament or training to be a mere partisan. I am not a mere partisan; and while heartily supporting democratic measures of public interest and policy in the senate of the United States, I shall make no factious opposition to the republican administration and its measures simply because they are republicans. On the contrary I shall yield a hearty support to all such measures of the administration as in my judgment will be promotive of the public weal. To build up the material interests not only of this commonwealth but of the whole country, to break down sectional animosities and restore harmony and kindly feeling between the sections, to promote purity, economy, and reform in the administration of the government, to relieve, as far as possible, the burden now resting on the people in the shape of an unequal revenue system, are some of the objects worthy the attention of every statesman and patriot."

Hon. Fernando Wood died at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on Sunday night. He was born in Philadelphia June, 1812, of Quaker parentage, and from the occupation of a cigar maker rose to be a ship-owner and successful merchant of New York city. He served repeatedly as a member of the lower house of congress, and was mayor of New York city from 1855 to 1857 and from 1861 to 1862. In the latter capacity in 1861 he created a great sensation throughout the nation by recommending that New York secede from the union and state and become a free city. His long public career has been marked by intense partisan spirit which has called down upon him severe criticism from the republican leaders and press, by fair abilities and a tireless activity.

The Washington correspondent writing to the N. Y. Herald recently said: "It is no secret among the generals' friends that he means to call into the cabinet Robert Lincoln of Chicago, the son of the great president. Mr. Lincoln is a sound lawyer and a zealous republican. He was an ardent Grant man in the movements preliminary to the Chicago convention and presided at the great Grant meeting in that city. It is believed that this selection will be gratifying to General Grant, and it is known that it will be peculiarly gratifying to General Logan, who does not himself desire a cabinet place, as he prefers to remain in the senate, but who is an ardent friend of Mr. Lincoln."

A new cable company has been formed in Paris, and has just issued a prospectus. It is proposed to connect all the Central American countries and Cuba with the United States and Europe. The English government guarantees an annual payment of $5,000 for the next twenty years as compensation for government telegrams between London and British Honduras. The capital of the new company is $600,000.

The regions in Ireland to be affected by Mr. Forster's coercion bill have a population of over 1,000,000, and embrace the counties of Galway, Mayo, Leitrim, Kerry, Limerick and a part of Cork—in all about one-third of the island, and one-fifth of the population.

In the senate yesterday, Maxey, democrat of Texas, showed that the United States paid for foreign mail service, $158,000 to foreign vessels, and only $38,000 to American bottoms, and spoke of it as a national disgrace. He is right.

Not one Chicago minister denounced Bernhardt. It is proper to add to this observation the fact that her receipts there were smaller than in any other large city.

Everybody that has tried Ammen's Cough Syrup continues its use; besides they tell their neighbors of it. We were in a drug store the other day and a customer asked for a bottle of Ammen's Cough Syrup, saying "I do not know anything about it myself, but my neighbor advised me to buy it for my cold; and tells me that the use of three bottles has entirely cured his cough of two years standing; in fact he says, 'it is the best medicine in the world for coughs, colds and lung complaints,' and that a one-dollar bottle did him more good than all the prescriptions he had from the doctors."

CITY.

A RATHER GAUZY STORY —We have just received the particulars of a case of robbery which is alleged to have occurred a few days ago in this city A young man named Menifee, who has been working at The Dalles for some time concluded he would go to Arizona He came down the river last Friday so as to take the steamer State of California, which sailed Saturday morning Menifee had about $300 in coin with him when he came down On arriving here he purchased a ticket for San Francisco, and had his baggage placed on board the steamer He stopped at one of the hotels of the city and concluded he would remain there during the night until the steamer sailed In the course of the evening Menifee chanced to meet a man with whom he was very slightly acquainted Just before retiring to bed the man asked Menifee if he would let him have half a dollar with which to procure lodging Menifee told him he had a bed in the hotel large enough to accommodate them both, that he could come up and sleep with him The offer was accepted and both men retired Before going to bed Menifee left orders for the watchman to wake him up at 2 o'clock, so as to reach the steamer in time At that hour he was called On getting up he discovered that his bed fellow was gone This circumstance aroused his suspicions, and on making further investigations he found that the fellow had taken all his money away except a five dollar greenback which he had in his vest pocket Menifee had no time to spare so he went down to the steamer and meeting a friend of his who was also going to Arizona, he told him of the loss which he had sustained His friend generously offered to defray his necessary expenses to the point of destination Menifee concluded it was better to leave on the steamer rather than wait and look for the person who had so basely betrayed his confidence

NEEDS INVESTIGATION —There is a family named Johnson consisting of a husband and wife and two children—a little girl and boy—who live in a miserable old scow which we believe at present is moored near Smith's saw mill in the upper portion of the city If reports are true the proper authorities should certainly look after the two children and take them away from the parents The boys aged about seven years and the girl eleven The parents we are informed, spend all their time in indolence, lounging about the old scow, and never pretend to do any work at all or make any effort to earn an honest livelihood Every day, it is said these idle and worthless parents compel their children to go out—regardless of the inclement weather—through the city and beg for food, which when they obtain is carried to their floating habitation During the past bad weather these scantily clad and poorly fed children have been forced to go out—very often in the midst of a pitiless storm—on their daily begging errand These reports may be exaggerated, but some of the organized charities of Portland should investigate the matter Should their case be as bad as represented, these unfortunate little beings ought to be removed from the abode of squalor and wretchedness and given comfortable homes

INSANE —A woman named Mrs J M Johnson was arrested Sunday night on a charge of lunacy and taken to the police headquarters In speaking of this unfortunate the Telegram says "Of late she has frequented the meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association and indulged in a manner of supplication for Heavenly favors that leaves no doubt of her being insane She also had rooms at the St. Charles hotel, where was found a basket of letters and valentines which prove conclusively her mind was deranged Valentines addressed to leading business men were found which designated them as "My Former Husband, "My Present Husband, and "My Husband that is to be," That she should be so anxious to secure such a superabundance of men is sufficient proof of her insanity" Mrs Johnson was examined yesterday and committed to the asylum

INTERNATIONAL GOOD TEMPLARS —The following is a list of the officers of Bethel Home Lodge No 1, I O G, T, of the world for the ensuing quarter, installed last evening by Chaplain Stubbs, the general deputy right worthy grand templar W H Hunter W C T Mrs M E Stubbs, W V T G W Prindle W Sec. G B Stubbs, W F Sec John McIntyre, treasurer Mrs E C Clarke, W chaplain Mrs E Rivers W marshal Mrs D Purvis, W I G, J Good W O G Mrs L Sorenson, W R S. Miss F Graham L H S The following were elected delegates to represent the Internationals at the meeting of the State Temperance Alliance Mr W F Gallagher Mrs L Sorenson Mr T Bubb Mr W C Greaves, Mr John McIntyre and Mrs L C Clarke

THE 'GOLD DUST' —This fast little steamer, having undergone an entire renovation in her machinery went for a trial trip yesterday During the past month she has been fitted with a new cylinder of fourteen in bore diameter made in the Honeyman works in this city, and her boiler has been enlarged. Of course, everything was new and worked stiffly, so that they did not dare to let her out to the best of her speed When everything gets worked smooth she will go about 14 miles an hour Capt Spencer calculates to run her as a jobbing boat in the middle Columbia during the coming season There is a good deal of towing to be done and the want of such a boat has already been felt

MISS SPAULDING'S LECTURE —The subject of the next social science lecture is one which happens to be receiving exceptional attention throughout the whole country and in Europe The proper care of the insane implies fundamental knowledge in many directions, chiefly in the origin of mental maladies The whole system of treatment and cure is a complex problem upon which the world is anxiously looking for light Miss Spaulding has considerable experience in hospitals and is in communication with some of the leading thinkers of the land Her thoughts will be sure to reach far into the principles of things and will be full of practical suggestion for her hearers

ANOTHER FREEZE UP THREATENED —The weather up the Columbia is reported quite cold The temperature at the various points ranges from 22 to 24 Weather clear and down stream wind with little or no ice running The steamers made connection with The Dalles without detention, and will leave as usual this morning The thermometer here stood at 29 degrees last evening at 8 o'clock The wind blew strong from the east and indications of a freeze-up are not unfavorable.

LOSS OF STOCK —Hon A J Dufur received yesterday a letter from his large ranch on Fifteen Mile creek, in Wasco county It is learned that the snow has not been so deep on the creek as at The Dalles, and the further south the less snow It is almost gone in Tygh valley and was just disappearing at the Dufur farm on the 11th Out of 6000 sheep, the Dufur Bros have lost up to the 11th, but 39, but they say the loss of stock by others in their vicinity has been large.

SOCIAL.—Those who desire a pleasant evening's entertainment will do well to attend the tissue paper social to be given by the young people of the Taylor street M E church on to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, where a fine literary and musical programme will be presented Strangers will be waited upon by a committee of young men who will see that they are welcomed and made acquainted See programme in to-morrow's issue

THE "HOOCHINO" DISTILLERS —Seven of the Hoochino distillers who were arrested at Sitka and Fort Wrangel were yesterday arraigned in United States circuit court Three of the defendants—D Sapagin, Wm Thompson and M Shmokoff—entered pleas of not guilty and their trials were set for the 21st and 22d of February Four of the prisoners entered a plea of guilty and were ordered to appear in court this morning for sentence

STONE PIERS —The Oregonian Railway Company have decided to build the piers and abutments of the new bridges over the North and the South Santiam of solid stone instead of wooden cribs filled in with stone as the first ones were constructed Work on them will be commenced to-morrow Their east-side division is in running order to the North Santiam, and the west-side its entire length

DEDICATION —The Baptist church on G street, East Portland, will be dedicated with appropriate services on the 27th of this month, if the painting is sufficiently dry, if not, the dedication will take place on the 6th of March The Rev McAffee of Eugene City will be present and occupy the pulpit in the morning of the day selected, and Rev John A Gray of Portland, in the afternoon.

DR. HAWTHORNE'S CONDITION —There is very little change to note in the condition of Dr. J. C Hawthorne His symptoms were of a more favorable nature He seemed free from pain, was resting quietly and breathing easier He remains speechless, though at times semi conscious The physicians are very despondent and give it as their professional opinion that he cannot recover

THIRD LECTURE —The third lecture of the course will be delivered at the First Congregational church of this city this (Tuesday) evening, by Rev. Dr A L Lindsley The reverend gentleman will lecture on the subject of 'Recent Discussion of the Theory of Evolution Before the lecture Messrs McLair and Miller will render the familiar duet of 'Robin Rough

ONLY A FLUE —About 8 o'clock last evening a general alarm of fire was sounded, and several of the bells at the engine houses joined in the discordant chorus The department responded quickly, but there was no occasion for service as the alarm was caused from a burning flue The alarm gave the boys a good run which they seemed to rather relish

HAS HE A LEASE —The Park block bet A and B is covered completely with sacks which heretofore contained wheat, and more or less of which adheres to them The citizens of the neighborhood object decidedly to the drying out of these sacks in the locality, and naturally inquire of the owner of them if he has a free or paid privilege?

DEATH OF MRS WEATHERFORD —After a lingering illness Mrs Lottie Weatherford departed this life in Portland yesterday morning at 10 o'clock She leaves a husband and large family to mourn her death Deceased was 31 years, 10 months and 15 days old The funeral will take place from the Unitarian church this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock

"Dr. Clyde is a splendid German comedy translated into English, with the scene laid in England The story is about as follows Mr Meeker a wealthy old gentleman, has a daughter who is married to Lord Hammond, in whom she is much disappointed because of his indolence, or rather want of an occupation in life Dr Clyde is a noble physician with his time occupied in practice almost to the exclusion of social enjoyment This is a great annoyance to his wife and only daughter—the latter having just made her debut in society She has a lover whom she consents to marry just as the curtain drops Mr Meeker has an elder y females servant and Dr Clyde, a man servant a regular Cockney Mr Owens) The plot consists of the trouble between Lord and Lady Hammond in which Dr Clyde is consulted, and which ends in mutual happiness Dr Clyde's practice both in physical and mental ailments, and the love of Emily Clyde and Tolbury Sims Mr Meeker figures extensively in the troubles of his daughter, which he makes his own Higgins comes in only incidentally

The comedy, though new, is of the old school known as the legitimate, and would be entirely satisfactory without the star There are no strong situations, and it was evidently written to bring out the powers of not one, but half a dozen good actors Mr Owens as the stiff, ignorant, obtrusive, would be dignified servant, was intensely funny There was quiet, keen humor in every step, every attitude every gesture, every change of expression in his wonderfully mobile features and in nearly every word Every motion was greeted with vociferous laughter His big scene, the close of the third act, when he is applied to in the doctor's office to relieve the illness of a countryman who calls, is simply immense

Unlike That man from Cattaraugus, the success of the play depends quite as much on the support as on the star, and every member of the excellent company seemed to have been chosen with special reference to his or her adaptability for the part assigned. Miss Adams made a very charming Emily Clyde and dressed the character elegantly Miss Cobb as 'Lady Hammond' was subdued but earnest and she showed fine taste in not overdoing the only emotional scene in the piece Mr. Arthur as the loving eccentric, troubled, but in the end happy father was thoroughly conversant with the part and presented it with dignity and grace Mr Cooke as Dr. Clyde lacked slightly in expressiveness otherwise he was an excellent portrayal of a profession loving, hard working honest physician Mr Paul gave a very neat bit of Cornish dialect as his 'Spriggs was decidedly clever The remainder of the cast down to the pretty and piquante chambermaid, Jennie was all that could be desired The audience was large and it is needless to say delighted Dr Clyde will be repeated to-night

DR. LINDSLEY'S LECTURE.

How Worlds and Living Beings Happened According to the Tutors of Evolution.

The lecture this evening at the Congregational church promises to be very entertaining and instructive It will give the substance of extensive reading and study Dr Lindsley being a graduate of the Troy Polytechnic, the first scientific school of the United States is familiar with all these subjects The lecture is a Symposium, by which no theological writer is invited and in which only scientific men are allowed to speak but the lectures makes them speak plain English so that people who do not profess to be scientific can understand and enjoy it

The Winter and its Results—Loss of Stock etc

THE DALLES Feb 13, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having taken some pains to obtain reliable information as to the extent of losses of stock this winter in this section of the country I send you the same in brief for use if you find it worth using The winter has been much more severe than ever known before in the country along the Columbia river and to the north—Klickitat Yakima, etc—but to the south—Antelope Upper John Day Trout creek Bridge creek Ochoco etc —reports all agree that it has been unusually mild The great snow fields extend this year from a line parallel with the Columbia river and say 30 miles south of it to the north indefinitely and in these reaches of snow perhaps from 25 to 30 per cent of unfed cattle may not through the winter though that percentage may prove too large, as the snow is still deep in most of the country and no one can tell how long it may last Sheep will come out in about the same proportion as cattle In horses which heretofore have been deemed safe for any winter there have been and will be losses this winter though by no means so great as in cattle and sheep The snow hangs too deep to the grass and feed is at best short when found In a little tour of observation lately I heard of many horses already dead and saw many which were so poor and starved they could hardly stand on their feet

The streams have been higher than ever known before and have destroyed fences bridges and in one or two instances buildings thus occasioning considerable loss to ranchmen The bridge at the mouth of De Chutes river owned by Mrs Miller has been carried away—certain spans of it twice—and that over the John Day owned by W Lair Hill was damaged last week the two spans toward the east shore being carried away I am told the bridges will be rebuilt just as soon as the work can possibly be done

Many of the small neighborhood bridges are gone and the streams passable with difficulty or not at all

To day the weather is warm and there are great hopes of a final break up notwithstanding there has been a 20 inch snow fall here within the last thirty six hours CASCADE

SHADE! LET US HAVE SHAD!

WALLA WALLA Feb 5 1881

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In a little book entitled "Fish Hatching and Fish Catching" by Seth Green & Roosevelt it is said that about five years ago some 30 000 shad fry were put into the Sacramento river California New and for the past year or two the San Francisco market is and has been supplied with this most excellent fish

There is perhaps no fish which can be reproduced by artificial means more easily than the shad They possess wonderful fecundity The eggs hatch in from nine to ten days, or about one sixty to one eighth the time required to hatch trout and salmon The young by an instinct of preservation are less liable to destruction from many causes which destroy other young fishes The shad is not gamy nor and hence is not the foe of any of the finny tribe while it may furnish food for the voracious kinds Therefore its introduction to new waters cannot be objectionable The impregnated spawn or the small fry can now be obtained from the Sacramento river, and it will in the Columbia above Celilo so that the young would pass through the gorges of The Dalles and Cascades en route to the sea, in a few years they would return in thousands to and beyond these rapids and another most valuable and desirable fish would be added to our market and table supply.

Will not the enterprising sportsmen and citizens of Oregon see that shad are brought to our waters this season? PAN

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Wasco County Hunter Cuts his Knee and Narrowly Escapes Bleeding to Death.

A correspondent from Juniper creek, Wasco county sends the following particulars of an accident that occurred near there

T F Moffitt wife, son and a man named Stump were camped about eight miles from here on the south fork of Juniper creek, hunting deer Mr Moffitt started out from camp on the morning of the 9th inst. accompanied by his horse and dog He had killed three deer, and while splitting a pair of hams the knife glanced, striking him in the knee, severing one of the branches of the main artery which came near bleeding him to death When the accident occurred he did not apprehend his danger, hung his hams in a tree, got on his horse and started for camp, a distance of about five miles He had not gone very far when he suddenly became unconscious from the loss of blood, On recovering he found that if he did not do something he should never get to camp alive, so he took the rope that his dog was led by, and corded his leg, and tied himself to the saddle, trusting implicitly in his horse, and got to camp just in dark completely exhausted Mrs Moffitt and Mr Stump managed to get him off his horse, sewed up the wound and stopped the flow of blood by using lint, otherwise death would have resulted from in a very short time He bound his leg so tight—and the weather being very cold, that it was numb and very nearly frozen It kept them busy all night working with him On the following day they started for home and arrived there without any serious injury, only exhaustion

Such as SPERMATORRHŒA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their circulation broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.
